CSC ACHIEVES GLOBAL ISO 20000 AND 9001 CERTIFICATIONS

FALLS CHURCH, Va., March 17 – CSC (NYSE: CSC) today announced that it has achieved global ISO 20000 and 9001 certifications from Lloyd's Register Quality Assurance. The certifications are international standards established and maintained by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO), and administered by accreditation and certification bodies.

ISO 9001 recognizes that an organization conforms to acceptable standards of quality at every stage of their product or service through a series of documented, repeatable processes. This certification recognizes CSC's capabilities including project management, software development, systems integration, infrastructure and applications outsourcing services, and consulting. ISO 20000 addresses IT service management and recognizes processes for effective service delivery. It is increasingly seen as the quality standard for IT service management, and many companies strive to receive the certification for their own benefit and to help qualify and choose suppliers and partner organizations.

"We are very pleased to have accomplished this rare achievement," said Richard Ricks, president of CSC's Global Outsourcing Services organization. "I'm proud to acknowledge the great work of many colleagues across the globe that resulted in CSC's global ISO 20000 and 9001 certifications, as verified by independent assessors."

The achievements recognize CSC's ability to operate as a global company with a common set of processes deployed across all regions. They also signify the company's commitment to quality and quality of service and provide a strong platform on which to build further certifications.
